

Andy's Thoughts

Hello... and welcome to my occasional thoughts. I am Andy, I live here at Monte Naturista O Barão with my wife Jill, my dog Sid, a cat named TomTom and my lovely goat Nellie. We first came here in our caravan in June 2007 to camp and look for our own place in the sun. We never left! Since then this little paradise has grown into what is in my opinion the best naturist site... in the world! In the coming months I'll keep in touch, through this page, with news, opinions and info.

APRIL

Sorry to be late. Our laptop decided to retire itself without warning. I now have to write these letters with the single finger method. It is so slow and does not have spell chucker. There has been rain, rain and then more rain. Poor weather all over Europe. So the coming spring will seem that much better. Today, we have cloud and a little sun but it is warmer. My typing finger goes white when cold. It is pink today. Luckily it is the only protruding part of me that changes colour with the weather. Hope to see you here soon, after this winter, you deserve a break.....andy. Short and sweet it may seem but writing this has taken 30 minutes!
